Information About the Procedure

Mesotherapy is an injection method in which mixtures prepared for different purposes are delivered into the middle layer of the skin with special needles. It may be applied to the face, neck and décolletage to hydrate and revitalise the skin, to the scalp for hair loss, and to some body areas for local contouring.

The products used may contain ingredients such as hyaluronic acid, vitamins, amino acids and minerals. Mesotherapy is given in sessions at regular intervals; regular sessions are required for results, and results vary from person to person. As treatment may be uncomfortable, numbing creams may be used.
